

Rescue in the Mall.

Logline.

After a family of unwanted toys learns about the mall plans to discontinue them, the toys--and their brave rescuers--battle various predators to maintain their survival.

Synopsis.

The slow sales of a family toy line leads the chairman of a mall to order the remaining toys collected and be destroyed. Members of the mall gather forces to try to help the family toys avert destruction.

From one store to another and down gloomy halls, the rescue team encounters various challenges. Candy, Tools, Soda, Whiskey Bottle, Syrup, Hammer, Screwdriver, and others put their lives on the line to help the family toys.

Fighting ferocious spiders, centipedes, rats, and more, the rescuers are determined to free their friends.

Two men and their detection dogs are hired to help locate the toys. The chairman has various meetings and is outraged at the lack of success in recovering the toys.

The men realize the toys and their friends are real, and that they can speak--and grow. The men decide to help them after learning one toy has been bitten by a spider.

The men manage to get the toys and friends to a doctor. Soon after, a money-hungry maintenance man kidnaps them. After a scuffle the toys are freed and find a new home with needy children.
